Senator Martin made a quick trip to St. Louis yesterday, which has aroused some comment. He left here after a few hours stay and took the afternoon train back to St. Louis. At the Union Station he met Colonel William H. Phelps and had a conference with him.

Martin then came back to Jefferson City on an early night train, and was ready to appear before the Grand Jury to-day. Lieutenant Governor Lee did not ask me to send out those letters, and he did not furnish me the lists of physicians," Martin said this afternoon. "I know nothing of money being spent on legislation."

Martin's letters have swelled in impor-tance since the Grand Jury began their work. The Farris combine Senators all refer to them as a work of art and ample ustification for the positions which they took against the repeal bill.

"Early in the session I asked my wife about alom baking powders," explained Senator Schoenlaub of St. Louis, to-day, "She said they were no good. Then, when I heard Martin rend those letters, my mind was made up. Of course, alum is bad for Senator Schoenlaub makes no bones of the Kab cill which was changed by Joseph Huegel of the Central Hotel.

"The tell you how that was," he said. "I had a Kob bill—that's nothing strange, is it?—and asked Senator Sartorious to charge it for me, as I was not going down to breakfast. We got Huegel to go over to the bank for him. When I came down Senator Sartorious and I stepped back a little, and he counted out the change to me. We didn't divide any money—it was all mine." Senator Sartorious confirmed Schoenlaub's explanation. "That's what we will tell the Grand Jury." he said. The foregoing statement made by Mr. Reardon yesterday afternoon at the close of a meeting of the Civic Improvement League, at the Missouri Historical Society, Sixteenth and Locust streets, is an indication of the active preparations to clean the streets of St. Louis.

A week ago the Civic Improvement League extended invitations to the prin-cipals of the public schools throughout the city to formulate some definite plan of action in regard to the proposed scheme of having the school children assist in ridding St. Louis of filth.

The opinions expressed by the principals who spoke at yesterday's meeting seemed to indicate that the proposed plan is a able assistance to the street-cleaning de-CHILDREN TO ASSIST.
